In the world thanks to the profound changes that have taken place in the digital technological sector and to globalization, the holders of wealth and therefore of power are no longer the nations but the large multinationals that capitalize more than some markets. See for example Apple, Huawei, Alphabet, Amazon, Alibaba. This phenomenon has rewritten the rules of world finance and consequently the banking system has gone into crisis as it is too rigid and not very flexible to change. The accommodating policies of the central banks have led to a prolonged phase of negative rates, accentuating the problems for the banks.

This new scenario has disoriented the population that cannot find easier solutions to satisfy their needs, financial products are increasingly complex and risky.
